Mr. LACKEY, in reply to Mr. Day, said that the Chief Secretary of Victoria wrote on the 5th November, 1877, saking for the views of the Government of New South Weise respecting the Walgarnyah Bridge at Cowra, and was informed in reply that it was not considered desirable to purchase the bridges, especially as tolls had been abolished in New South Wales. The people of Corowa had petitioned that the bridge might be made free of toll, but there was no reference to any promise of the Victorian Government to pay half the purchase money. The question having been accided by the late Government had not again been brought forward for consideration.

MOTION FOR ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. HURLEY (Hartley) moved the adjournment of the House. He desired to call the attention of the Secretary for Works to a report current as to the placing of a station at Lithgov or Eak Bank. This matter had been brought under the notice of various Governments since 1876. In that year he made application, on behalf of the people of Lithgow, that the station should be creeted in the most central place. He owned no property there, and had only the interests of the general public to serve. But it should be a majority who should determine the question. It was resolved that a return should be taken showing the saffic at the platforms at both places, and that from that it would be decided which was the most suitable place.

Mr. HOSKINS, in reply to a question, said no authority had been given to the A. S. N. Co. to creet a face in Jones Hev. Pyrnont, across the water frontage of private property.

Mr. LACKEY, in reply to Mr. Dangar, said that the bridge over Narnabri Creek was completed in Docember last, and be believed was a available for traffic. The contactor for the bridge over the Namoi at Cooma, Narrabri, was J. A. Jones. The time for completing the bridge over the Namoi at Cooma, Narrabri, was J. A. Jones. The time for completing the bridge over houses. The time for completing the bridge would expire on March 3, 1880.

Mr. HOSKINS, in reply to Mr. Dangar, said that if time and business permitted, a bill for legalising certain conditional purchases would be introduced that session. The bill would have reference to other than conditional purchases would be introduced that session. The bill would have reference to other than conditional purchases.

The House, at nineteen minutes to 8, adjourned until Tuesday next, at 4 o'clock.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The very excellent leading article in your issue of this day, on the nepessity of restricting the borrowing powers of banks with limited liability, is desaying of the serious consideration of all your readers.

That your readers may satisfy themselves as to the soundness of your conclusions, they should study the quarterly statements of bank liabilities and assets, published by the Treasury, which can be had for sixpones a piece at the Government Printing Office; these afford an amount of valuable facts in figures, which bear out your argument.

From the published statement in the Government Gazetts of the 26th February, 1879, No. 65, which is made up to 31st December, 1878, it will be seen that the five Anglo-Australian banks owed the colony of New South Wales, in respect of notes in circulation, deposits at call, and fixed deposits, 24,273,547; and that they had only 2949,811 of their own capital in the colony.

Armidale. It was only a hatter of a vary short distance.

Mr. W. Davies, Mr. Barbour, Mr. Dangar, Mr. J. Davies, Mr. Jacob, Mr. Thompson, Mr. Bayers, Mr. Bradley, and Mr. Murphy ornily supported the object the deputation had in view, and then

Mr. Locary thanked all who had spoken for the valuable information they imparted to him. The line as it was proposed to be constructed was recommended by engineers of the department, as it would avoid a descent of 200 feet. The detour desired would necesitate the construction of something like an elbow in the line, adding to the legth of it some live or six miles, which some persons argued would, at the rate of £11,000 a mile, add £80,000 or £70,000 to the cost of the line proposed by the Government. He had held a conversation with the Engineer-in-Chief on the subjects and he could not help being impressed with the importance of it as far as the residents of Armidale were concerned. It had heen said that many firms had spent

A deputation, consisting of Messers. C. H. Hill. J. M'Roberts, F. Chave, J. Townsend, John Luke, R. Gallard, and J. Tamsett (interested in the Paramatta fruit trade) waited upon the Minister for Works, yesterday morning, with the view of urging upon him the necessity for securing a quicker and earlier dispatch for fruit sent from Paramatta to Sydney, more regularity in the return of empty cases, and more speedy delivery of fruit at the Redfern terminus. After hearing their desires, Mr. Lackey promised the deputation he would inquire of the Commissioner for Railways whether effect could be given to them, and, if so, he would see they were attended to.

THE INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION COMMISSION.

The usual weekly meeting of the International Exhibition Commission was held at the Offices, Macquarie-street, yesterday afternoon. Present:—Sir John Hay, Vice-President (in the chair), Sir G. W. Allen, Mr. Jenninge (Executive Commissioner), Mr. Joseph, Mr. Brodribb, Mr. Thornton, Mr. J. Davies, Mr. Roberts, Mr. Hill, Dr. Garran, Mr. Merriman, Mr. King, Mr. Macleay, Mr. Mort, Mr. Suttor, Mr. Trebeck, Mr. Webb, Professor Smith, Mr. W. Davies.

CORRESPONDENCE.

The following correspondence was received:—
Letter from Mr. E. R. Palmer, recommending that measures should be taken to have the aboriginal inhabitants of the colony, with their manners and customs represented at the Exhibition.

RESECUTIVE COMMISSIONER'S REPORT.

Mr. P. A. JENNINGS read the following report:

"Since the last meeting of the Commission a telegram has been received from Sir Daniel Cooper submitting the offer of an organ which has been handed over to the committee on interior arrangements for consideration: and report. The telegram continues to say. Space as stated will do; steamers reducing freights and passages; great interest taken in the Exhibition."

"A letter has been received this day from Dr. Hector, C.M.G., which prepares us for a splendid exhibit from New Zesland, and is the best indication of the activity and seal that exists there.

been stated for the guidance of New Zealand exhibitors by the Commissioners and local committees appointed in different parts.

"The number of exhibits already promised is very satisfactory, and among others the Maories have placed at the disposal of our Government a very ancient and elaborately-carved house, to be exhibited as a specimen of native art. I mention this circumstance as the proper display of this valuable exhibit will probably require a large addition to the space (4000 square) feet already allotted to us, so that the Commissioners rely upon your having been able to keep some considerable reserve for us, as suggested in my telegram of the 28th January. Your telegram of the 20th ultimo, announcing that a farther exhibition of wool from next season's clip will be held in December has been made public, and has given general satisfaction.

"I have the homour, &c.,

"(Signed)

"P. A. Jennings, Esq., Chairman, Executive Commissioner, Sydney International Exhibition, Sydney."

"The appointment by the N. Z. Commission of fourteen local committees will no doubt insure universal publicity in the islands to the Sydney International Exhibition, an evidence of which is the other made by the Maories.

"The progress report of the commission deals with some most important matters which ought to be determined upon immediately.

"The presence of the Hon. J. J. Casey, Victorian Executive Commissioner, here to-day, accompanied by Mr. Pigdon, a member of the Commission may have to make."

Mr. Jenninos added that he had thought it better to postpone information on certain other matters until they were in a more advanced state.

The Fourt was received.

proposition was that the Outer Domain should be proclaimed a quarantine ground. He had not received an official reply, but he had been informed that the Chief Inspector of Stock, whose duty it was to advise the Government in such matters, was not in favour of the proposal, and would not recommend its acceptance. He would make inquiries before the next meeting of the Commission.

Some remarks were made on the subject by two or three members of the Live Stock Commission, and it was pointed out that the committee, which was composed of gestlemen who were not mere theorists, but who had had great experience, and who had a large interest in stock, were unanimously in favour of the proposal, and thought it absolutely necessary that it should be complied with.

The Commission then adjourned.

MINING.

Krohmann's Amalgamated G. M. Co.—The mining manager reports: "Hill End, 10th March, 1879. Still baling water from C. and B. shaft and Holtermann's north shaft; have lowered the water 35 feet from the 200-feet level; making the present water level in C. and B. 235 feet from surface. The claims adjoining us north give us a large quantity of water on account of their not baling. I expect to get the water on the week, when vertical sinking will be resumed in Carroll and Basad's shaft from the 500-feet level, to prospect the western ground Back-stoping No. 2 vein at 100-feet level, two ton of quarts have been broke down from this vein, it is 2 to 24 inches thick, and shows payable gold. Stoping out north and south on Holtermann's east vein at 80-feet level; have broken down two tons of quarts from this vein, it is 3 inches thick, showing fine gold through it; 4 ton of quarts at surface."

The Sydney Morning Berald.

SATURDAY, MARCH 15, 1879.

In the Legislative Ass maly, yesterday, Questions were asked by Mesers Dangan, Barbour W. Sutton, W. C. Browne, Day, Cameron, John-TON, M'ELHONE, GREENWOOD, and TRECE, and answere

Mr. HURLEY (H.) moved the adjournment of the House o call attention to the reported intention of the Government o place a station on the Western line at Eak Bank instead of Lithgow. He read correspondence in support of his claim that the station would be most convaniently situated about three-quarters of a mile from the place where it was now proposed to place it. He also referred to the unloading of vessels at Circular Quay in a manner to im-pede the traffic of the A. S. N. Company.

Mr. W. SUTTOR desired to urge on the Govern wast importance of completing the railway to Albury in time for the Exhibition. The Victorian Commissioner had that day stated to a sub-committee that 100,000 people would be likely to visit Sydney during the Exhibition if the

Mr. DAY also urged the necessity of completing the line to Albury. Mr. Lucas knew something of the locality on the Western line, and was satisfied the station should be at Lithgow. But he did not think the Albury line could be completed in time for the Exhibition.

Mr. W. DAVIES called attention to the telegram of that day in the Press complaining that the contractors of the Albury line could not get the Government surveyors to lay out the line. If the whole line could not be completed, at least as many miles could be opened as possible.

Mr. M'ELHONE could not understand the reasons for the difference between the amount of tenders for railways and the actual payments. He also wished to ask why the

Mr. GREENWOOD regretted to hear so many hor mbers express their belief that the line to Albury could be completed in time for the Exhibition. With proper not be compared in time for the azimusuon. With proper superprise he was certain it could. As to the arrest of Mr. Kidman, the Speaker's warrant had no force outside that House, although it might have within, but why arrest a man with no power to punish him? Dr. Bowkin desired to know why some complaints re-specting the loss of money sent by post to Newcastle had not been answered. He had made inquiry in vain.

Mr. Waxs thought the Government should determine th question of the railway station on the Western line either in favour of Lithgow or Eskbank, and do it at once. The line to Albury should be pushed on with, and the traffic would recoup a large part of the cost. Mr. LACKRY had taken the earliest opportunity, who the Exhibition was decided upon, of trying to urge on the Albury line. He learnt that it would consect £25,000 to do this, and he doubted whother the House would consent to that. The contractors were getting a good polee already They said they could finish the work in time, but he doubted that, although, if the line could be fluished, i doubted that, atthough, if the line could be finianed, it would tend greatly to make our Exhibition a success. As to the neglect of Government in laying out the line, the survey had been completed long ago, and there was not a word of truth in the allegation. In regard to the Lithgow railway station the question had been open for years, and he had come to the same decision as his predecessors, to sweet the station on ers, to sreet the station on the north side of the bridge, and at a little distance from

Mr. BARBOUR regretted the Government had not taken more decisive action for completing the Albury line. If £25,000 would secure the opening of the line in time for the Exhibition, it would be cheep. The extraordinary traffic for the few Exhibition months would more than repay the extra charge. The complaint of the contractors was no that the line had not been surveyed, but that Governmen had not set out the work.

Mr. HURLEY (H.) replied, and the motion for adjourn nt was negatived.
The House adjourned at eighteen minutes before 8, until

The farewell address of the Legislative Assembly to the Governor was not amenable to the criticisms that Mr. M'ELEONE passed upon it; because the recognition of ability, of courtesy, and of a deep interest in the welfare of the colony was not inconsistent with every variety of opinion as to the merits of the questions that have arisen during his Excellency's term of office, as to the right relations between the Governor and Parlis ment. It so happens that in relation to the Rossi case and the GARDINER case, and also as to the question of dissolutions, there have been shown to exist differences of opinion between Sir Hercules Robinson and the House as to the course which should have however, we think it will be admitted on reconsideration that the difficulty bility. In both cases the trouble was caused by memoranda, written by the Governor, coming to the knowledge of the Legislative Assembly. If the Governor had dealt directly with the Assembly, over the Ministers the objection to such the Ministers of Commons. Under that bill, every person entering the precincts is at once on his good behaviour, and if he offends he is amenable to an instant jurisdiction.

But if Mr. Kidman had made his contradiction. heads of his Ministers, the objection to such action would have been valid. But where a tion in the street, or in a pamphlet, he would document is brought down by a Ministry, not in any way have interfered with the freeand by it put before the House, the whole

Ministry itself. Prince Alder throws a great deal of light as to the language he uses. If his defence is on this point. Prince Alder was an recriminatory, and he offends against the law on this point. Prince ALBRET was an recriminatory, and he offends against the law industrious and conscientious man. He of libel, he can be brought to account for it studied all the grave questions of State for in the ordinary Courts. No one ought to be himself, and he was very fond of putting his ideas on paper and forwarding them to Ministers. Some people think that in this he was troublesomely fussy, and had better have left a member. On the contrary, the very fact the business of Government alone, and contented himself with being an ornamental and can make his own statements without appendage. Others think that he was singularly useful, by bringing to bear upon the to the accused the largest possible liberty grave questions that arose a mind well-consistent with his not becoming alanderous grave questions that arose a mind wellinformed, capable of clear thought, and unbiassed by party passions, and they point to the large number of his suggestions that were adopted, as a proof of the utility of his thinking and his writing.
The whole question is still mixed up with a good deal of party strife as to the limite of the propositive, but when the misleading good deal of party strife as to the limits of the prerogative; but when the misleading influences of party spirit have subsided, we think the judgment of posterity will be that the mental activity of the Prince was, on the whole, a distinct benefit to the country. Be that so it was, the great point to note is this.

Governor should always keep his thoughts to himself, and remain mum in the presence of -simply signing his name and nodding his head—misconceive both the dig-nity and the utility of the office. In forming nity and the utility of the office. In forming opinions the Governor has many advantages, and it would be folly and waste to throw those advantages away. To utilise his opinions does not in the slightest degree interfere with the responsibility of Ministers. It is they, and they only, who deal with Parliament, and if ever they put before the House suggestions that come from the Governor, or even documents that have been penned. even documents that have been penned by the Governor, they are absolutely and wholly and entirely responsible. If this view of the case, which is the only sound constitutional one, had been appreciated during the discussions on the Rossi and GARDINER cases, the so-called collision between the Governor and Parliament would have been avoided.

In the dissolution controversy, the point involved was different, and the appeal to British authorities resulted in a non-approval of conditional dissolutions. The quest ald be at it actually arose was somewhat complicated. but at bottom it rested on the question as to whether the responsibility of leaving the country without supplies rested with the Governor or with the condemned Ministry. In the case of an uncondemned Ministry, there could be no doubt about the answer to be given to the question, because it is abundantly clear that a Ministry enjoying the confidence of Parliament has the entire responsibility of asking for supplies, and of incurring expenditure. But it is not so easy to say whether a Ministry that Parliament has condemned ought to be allowed to leave the country without legal supply, to have a three months' further lease of life, and all the possible advantages of a general election, simply to give it or ce. The rights of a defeated Ministry cannot be considered to be the same as those of a Ministry which has the confidence of Parliament.

If it could be enforced, it would certainly be a good rule, that dissolution should always be refused in the absence of supply, for the effect of such a rule would be to make Parliaments and Ministries more careful that the granting of supply should not be unduly delayed. It certainly seems an anomaly to say that a Ministry that cannot be trusted by Parliement with a supply for three months should be entitled to get from the Governor a con-tinuance in office and the privilege of a dissolution. The difficulty is not unlikely to arise again, because there seems to be a chronic tendency for supply to fall inte arrears, and too many of our Ministries have set the example of asking for a dissolution when they ought to have bowed to a defeat.

If instead of obstinately opposing the wise amendment of the Legislative Council on the Privilege Bill, the Assembly had accepted that measure in the improved form in which it was sent back to them, it might by this time have been law, and the Assembly would have had ample power to deal with such an offence as that committed by Mr. KIDMAN. Whether without any such law it has any adequate protection is a matter now under the consideration of the ATTORNEY-GENERAL, and we may fitly postpone any discussion on that point till he has made his report. But the SPEAKER was quite right in saying that with the precedents before him, he had no clear power to do more than he did in seeing that the offender was removed.

There can be no doubt that for an outsides to interrupt the debates of Parliament ought to be in itself a distinct offence, and there should be no manner of doubt as to its being punishable, and as to the authority to be promptly set in motion to deal with the offender. The meetings of the two Houses of Legislature must be strictly guarded against every form of interruption or intimilation. Its debates cannot possibly be free, if strangers are by language or gesture, to be permitted to coerce or insult members. The Privilege Bill as it now stands, superaoriginated very largely in a misconception bundantly deals with this difficulty, for of the scope of Ministerial responsibility. In both cases the trouble was House of Parliament all the privileges of dom of debate. Whether his case is a good responsibility of so doing must rest with the one or not, he has a right as a citizen to Ministry itself.

Be that as it may, the great point to note is this, that under the system of responsible government the Prince's memoranda had no validity unless and until they were endorsed by the Ministry. If the Cabinet disapproved of his views, then his thinking and writing counted for naught. If they approved of, and adopted them, then they became responsible. His opinions simply took the form of suggestions, and, as sometimes be grossly abused. The prospect of the success of the Victorian Embasy appears to be getting more and more along. A few days ago we were informed that the Standard and the Post had condemned the scheme of Mr. Berry, and now we are told that the Spectator has condemned it also, and has magested an alternative for securing finality of legislation without abolishing the Legislative Comeil. The Spectator's verdict on the mission with Embasy is valuable not only on account onnean the second of the Embassy is valuable not only on account of the weight that may be attached to sepinion—although that is always considerable is opinion—arrhogat take it a saways considerates but also on account of the fact that the Spectator is one of the English journals that has strongly taken Mr. Berray's side. When the Victorian dead-lock began, it firmly maintained that the agreesor was the Council not the Assembly, and that the former deserved all the resistance it got from the latter. It even went so far as to vindiment to tacking on of measures of policy to appropriation Votes. This, the Spectator argued, so the most decent way available for putting down an indecent opposition, and one much preferable to the section of barricades and the proclamation of isional Governments. The Spectator, which seldom a good word to say for the present Government, also maintained that Sir lory Government, also maintained that Sir his full countenance to the Governor who substituted to Mr. Berry's measure. All this makes it the more remarkable that the Speciator has now contended that the stead. Our blagram says that the Spectator suggests an alternative for the abolition of the Council. aternative for the abolition of the Council. The scheme of this journal was fully explained last year when the causes and the cure of the Victorian dead-lock were being vigorously discussed in London. It comprises not the abolition of the Council, but the making it a nomines instead of an elective body, an idea which Mr. Bear himself strongly favoured a year ago. A somines Council, however, might provide no effectual remedy against a deadlock, since circumstances might arise in which no practicable additions to the Upper House might be sufficient to seems a majority for a Government. This defect. scure a majority for a Government. This defect, the Speciator suggests, should be provided against by enacting that a two-thirds vote of the popular assembly should always override the hostile vote of the Council, unless at all remain not even one-third of the Council could be found to support the measure. This, no doubt, is the Speciator's present alternative for the promre a majority for a Government. This defect. peal of Mr. BERRY which, as we have alr i, is that the Assembly should be empowered to reform the Constitution, and these, should the Legislative Council decline, Parliament should be dissolved whether the Council consented or not. The Spectator's scheme for the solution of the difficulty is certainly a more feasible and tangible one than Mr. Bernay's own,

The Times furnishes a report of a meeting, held in the Memorial Hall, Manchester, of gentlemen interested in the Lancashire trades, for the purpose of appointing a committee which should take steps to open up the interior of Africa to British commerce. The usual weekly meeting of the International And asual weekly meeting of the International Exhibition Commission was held yesterday afternoon, Sir Jehn Hay, the senior Vice-President, taking the chair in the shsence of his Excellency the Governor. The Hon. J. J. Casey (Executive Commissioner in Victoris on behalf of the colony), with Mr. Pigdon (a Commissioner in Victoria), and Mr. Bannister (secretary), were present. A letter from Dr. Hector, the President of the New Zeeland Commission, was read, showing the steps which are being taken in that colony to promote the success of the Exhibition. A report from the Exterior Arrangements Committee, recommending

The other deputation was from Berrima, with regard to the supposed removal of the rims, with regard to the supposed removal of the public business to Moss Vale. It transpired that there was no such intention as had been supposed, and the deputation retired after having thanked the Minister.

An influential deputation of members of Parliament, who principally represented Northern interests, waited upon the Minister for Works yesterday morning, with a view to impressing him with the necessity for taking the Northern railway through the city of Armidaie instead of outside of it. After hearing the arguments the deputation set up, Mr. Lackey said the valuable information the deputation invaried to arguments the deputation set up, Mr. Lackey said the valuable information the deputation imparted to him would be of great service to him. He was in favour of railways being taken to centres of population at reasonable charges to the State; but it was alleged that the divergence of the line into Armidale would involve a large expenditure and a very considerable gradient. He would promise to bring the matter before his colleagues, and let the deputation have the answer of the Government regarding it at an early date.

MR. CHARLES MOORS, the Curator of the Botanical Gardens and Director of the Domain, is to be congretulated upon having taken upon himself the initiative in introducing asphalte walks in the Domain, and that with great success. The work was entrusted by Mr. Moore to a gentlemen formerly an officer of Royal Engineers, whose duty it was to surepitated the Engineers, whose duty it was to superior hoyal Engineers, whose duty it was to superintend the laying with asphalte the parade grounds between the blocks of barrack buildings at Aldershot. This gen-tleman has succeeded in turning that walk in the Domain which leads from the Governor Bourke status Domain which leads from the Governor Bourke status to the fountain opposite the entrance to the Gardens, previously a most unpleasant walk, into a pleasurable pathway. Perhaps a more trying walk could not have been selected to test the desirability of adopting the use of asphalte than the "Fig-tree Walk," as the one referred to is named; for the reason that the drippings from the trees used to cut it into holes, and form rivulets. The asphalte recently laid refrom rivulets. The asphalte recently laid resists the drippings, and the water runs off. The pathway is piesant to walk upon; it is hard yet apringy, and is agreeable to the eys. being of a grey colour. We understand that Mr. Moore who is, also, one of the trustees of Hyde Park, has induced his brother trustees to introduce the some eart of walks.

At an early nour in the morning of the 18th intimo the dwelling of Lawrence C. Dean, of Maitland-place, dealer, was entered and robbed of two pairs of trousers, in the pockets of which were gold and ailver money to the amount of nearly £30, and two rings, valued by Dean at £20. A young man was brought into custody on Friday, last week, charged with the offence, and was remanded until to-day, when, the evidence failing to fix him with the offence, he was discharged.

An accident, which has since resulted fatally, occurred at Double Bay on Thursday afternoon. James Butterworth, a young man 25 years of age, the contractor for a house now in course of erection at Bellerue Hill, was working on a wooden scaffolding about 20 feet from the ground, when he met with an accident which has caused his death. On Tuesday, February 4, Cecil S. Fison, chief officer of the steamship Gunga, was charged, at Fiji, with having assaulted a Chinese fireman on board the steamship Wentworth. The assault (says the Times) had been committed on board the Wentworth on the night prior to her departure last trip, and the defendant had been admitted to bail to appear on the return of the steamer to Levuka. It appeared that there had been some quarrealling between the Chinese firemen and the Fiji natives who were working on board, and the second officer, fearing a disturbance, called upon the Chinese firemen to come out of the hold, where they had gone down to make a disturbance with the natives. Thereupon one of them, Kowk Hing, the complainant, turned round and challenged the second officer to fight, and he, not desiring a contest with the man, sent for the chief officer who, on discovering that the man was insolent, administered corporal punishment with an umbrella stick, and admitted having done so to the Court. The magistrate said that an assault had been committed, and he had no other alternative than to inflict a fine, seeing that the vessel was in harbour, and the man could have been handed over to the policy for insulars.

At the request of Captain Chapman, the detectives bundled the woman sahore, when she became very passionate and abusive to Duncan, whom she taunted with having persents of Duncan, whom she taunted with having permitted Wiberg to escape after having shared the proceeds of the robbery with him. The accusation so nettled the detective that he arrested her on the charge of insulting behaviour. The prisoner, who gave the name of Catherine Smith, or Schmidt, carried a reticule in her hand, which, upon examination, was found to contain £270 in bank notes and 130 contains. sovereigns. The majority of the notes were for £1 each, but there were also amongst them a number of £5-notes on banks in Sydney and South Australia. The bag also contained seven gold finger rings, a pair of ear-rings, a sear! ring, a quantity of broken old jewellery, two loaded teetotums, a fine specimen of the trick match-box, and some dice. Mrs. Smith, who is believed to be box, and some dice. Mrs. Smith, who is believed to be the wife of a mageman, would appear to be a person of a methodical turn of mind, as a diary was also found in her reticule. An entry on the inside of the cover states that "nothing has been heard of the gang since they left Jerilderic." Further on was an extract from a Melbourne newspaper to the effect that "the Victoria Regina was expected to bloom this afternoon, in the Botanical Gardens, when, no doubt, a large number of visitors would attend." The inference to be drawn from this entry is that the writer also intended paying a professional visit to the gardens. The routes and stages of sional visit to the gardens. The routes and stages of up-country towns are also carefully mentioned. A learned counsel is also named as likely to be engaged by the writer at a fee of £5.5s. to defend some one in the Supreme Court, providing "Mr. Miller, solicitor," is engaged to instruct him. Under date 6th December appears a mention of the writer having described the engaged to instruct him. Under date 6th December appears a mention of the writer having deposited the sum of £434 in the Australian and European Bank, Melbourne, at fixed deposit. On the same day, it appears the writer "took out of pawn two gold nugget rings, that I bought with my hard earnings." It was evident that a country tour was made, for the diary goes on to say, under date December, "We went to the Ballarat cricket ground, where the committee told me to stop playing, but I wouldn't. ber, "We went to the Ballarst cricket ground, where the committee told me to stop playing, but I wouldn't, and still went on, but on the following day the committee had their eyes on us, and we had to give in and leave the ground." The owner of the diary would appear not to be an ardent sdmirer of the Berry Government, as on the day following that of the prorogation of Parliament appears the following: "The booming of the cannons denoted the prorogation, and that a period of peace and much-needed repose had been inaugurated." Amongst the prisoner's effects was an old mustard tin, tightly soldered down, which apparently had only recently been exhumed from the ground, as some clay was still found on the lid. In the tin were found five gold watches, two of which were ascertained. some clay was still found on the lid. In the tin were found five gold watches, two of which were ascertained, by reference to the stolen property list, as having been stolen in 1874. Subsequently the prisoner was eserohed by the female searcher at the city lockup, who found £11 in gold and three more watches in her pockets, or else concealed about Smith's person. Later in the evening a man called at the watchhouse, and inquired about the prisoner, and appeared considerably disturbed on hearing he had been locked up and thoroughly searched. Amongst the prisoner's belongings was a letter addressed to the editor of the evening paper, in which the writer professes to expose the tricks adopted by cardsharpers and magenen generally.

Tun difficulties experienced in finding employment for the immigrants recently arrived in Queensland (says the Telegraph) have caused the Government to consider whether their recent action in reducing the num-sider whether their recent action in reducing the num-bers by one half sufficiently met the necessities of the case. We have reason to believe that they discovered case. We have reason to believe that they discovered ample justification in the state of the labour ample justification in the state of the labour market for tomporarily discontinuing free immigration; but, added to this, they were constantly being met by complaints that persons had been induced to emigrate by misrepresentations of the grossest character on the part of the sub-agents. Apart from the offence which, from being so very common, we must regard as venial, of exaggerating the opportunities allowed by the colonies for employment, it has been found that in numerous cases people have been prevailed upon to pay their own passages out by being told that they would receive land-orders on their arrival in the country. Yet, the land-order system was abodished no less than four years ago. In these circumstances the Administration have determined to reorganise stances the Administration have determined to reorganise the whole system on which immigration is conand in the meantime to suspend free immigration as conducted, and in the meantime to suspend free immigration entirely. Full-paying and remittance passengers will be conveyed out as at present, but as these for some time past have not formed an appreciable proportion of the total, it is not thought that the labour market will be much affected by the introduction of these classes being continued.

AMUSEMENTS

"True to the Core," with Mr. Emery as the Plymouth pilot, was repeated last night, at the Theatre Royal, with the usual success, its patriotic tone and succession of strik-ing tableaux winning it round after round of applause. It will be repeated to-night.

At the Victoria "Leah, the Foreaken," was presented, Mrs. Bates playing Leah, and Mr. Bates her inconstant lover. The performance concluded with a farce, in which Mr. Holt and Miss Edwin succeeded in amusing everyone. To-night "The Streets of New York" will be played. At the Queen's "Corrad and Lizette" was played for the last time this season, for to-night it will be replaced by "Struck Oil," in which the characters of John and Lizette Stofel will be taken by Mesars. Baker and Farron res-Stofel will be taken by Messrs. Baker and Farron respectively.

At the School of Arts the Blondenettes performed a capital programme. The ladies possess plenty of viwelty and good voices, and are well costumed, and that they should please an audience is not to be wundered at. The prima donna is undoubtedly Miss Marie Wynne, whose voice is of beautiful quality and good range. She sang a balled, and subsequently, the Asucena nusic in a the "Si Nostri Montes" from Il Trovatore. Signor Fredrice sang the part of Manrico, and showed that his voice has not deteriorated in quality. To-night, some changes in the programme will be made.

The Carandini concert at the Masonic Hall this evening will certainly be a success musically, for the performers are Madame Carandini, Miss Marie Carandini, Miss Melville, Miss Warie Carandini, Miss Melville, Miss Warie Carandini, Miss Molville, Miss Warie Carandini, Miss Long, Mr. A. Fairfax, Mr. Rainford, Mr. Sherwin, Signor Pompei, and Mons. Mished with his zither. The Hon. Lady Ecohinson will be present, and this circumstance should also aid to fill the house.

PRIDAY.

Entries for the show to take place on the 26th and 27th instant are pouring in, and there is every prospect of a most successful exhibition. Great improvements are being effected on the show ground, and every effort is being made by the committee to ensure a success. The weather is fine, and grass and water are plentiful. The wheat crops will average in many cases forty bushels per acre, but there is no outlet for the produce, and many of the farmers are trying to sell their homesteads to avert ruin. One squatter lately had ten applications in one week from farmers anxious to sell out. The district is greatly depressed: money is tight. out. in their stead. The disreputable condition of many of the houses in which a large proportion of the population of Sydney are compelled to live is a great inducement to sanitary evils and to crime. Tet the people must live in these places, for there is no better for them to go to. Put every parent among them whom you suspect of breaking the law into gaol, and send every child at Bilcela or the Vernon, and you will find the houses afflied with others of the same class to-morrow. But pull down the houses, and build cottages fit for respectable artisans or labouring men and their families to live in, and the moral tone of the people will be raised; dirt, discomfort, and crime will disappear; and avaricious landlords will be prevented from fattening any longer on the bodies and souls of their tenants. A little mefication will show that we have within easy reach all the remedies for the evils so much complained of; and that, so far as they are concerned, there is no necessity to resort to any axtraordinary or oppressive legislation. Clears the Blood from all impure matter

As this Mixture is pleasant to the tacte, and warranted free from sarything injurious to the most delicate constitution of either sex, the Proprietor solicits sufferers to give it a trial to test its value.

THE BLOOD being the source from which our systems are built up, and from which we derive our mental as well as physical capabilities, how important that it should be kept pure. If it contains ville festering poisons, all organic functions are weakened, thereby settling upon important organs as the lungs, liver, or kidneys, the effect is most diasetrous. Hence it behaves every one to keep their blood in a perfectly healthy condition, and more especially at the spring and fall of the year. No matter what the exciting cause may be, the real cause of a large proportion of all diseases is bad blood.

"To F. J. Clarke, Esq.,

"IR.,—I was very badly attacked with a skin disease, called in this solony 'prickly heat,' and was recommended to try your 'Blood Mixture.' I purchased a bottle, which suffected a perfect oure. I have recommended it to many persons afflicted with the same complaint, with disflar results. If you think this testimonial likely to be of service to you, make use of it in what way you please.

One was a very serious cancer on the cheek (on the cheek-bone near the oye). The sufferer, a lady, had been to several medical men, also two or three hospitals, but got no relief. A friend induced her to try your Blood Mixture. She soon obtained speedy visief, and is now quite cand. The other case was of a lady suffering from servinis all over the body, with the exception of the face and hands. She had had this painful disease from the time she gave birth to her first child. She is now quite well, and I consider it my duty to acquaint you with these hors.

"EETIMONIAL.

From James Williamson, Dispensing and Analytical Chemist, Scarborough.

"Mr. P. Charks, — most wonderful case of the efficacy of your medicine has transpired here, to which really, if not knowing the fact, I was not prepared to give credence. A gendeman of great wealth and of almost world-wide fame and renown, slaying here for a time, was dready with an unsightly disagreeable tiehing cruption, and—as he described the—general hope pain. He consultdy affected with an unsightly disagreeable tiehing cruption, and—as he described the—general hope pain. He consulted the most eminent medical men in the provinces, and ultimately Sir J. Paget, of Londons, who designated it 'Gout and its consequence.' He found mo relief from anything. Some poor woman recommended your 'Blood Mixture,' He was strongly averse to quackery, as he termed it, but headed by may recommendation, he was induced to try the 'Blood mixture,' and the first bottle, as if it were a charm, relieved the heat and thehing, and a regular persistence and continuance for a short time has well migh worked a miracle. The butter has just been in and eaps how delighted and grateful his master is, and sho astounded at ruch a change. He is move able to get a past and fravel as turn. I wish he could be preceded to great and the patent fact would be preceded. The patent fact would be preceded. "I will he could be preceded to great and the patent fact would be preceded." "J. Meers. ELLIS and MAKINSON, 89, Elisabeth-street, Sydney.

The Company having been duly registered under "the Companies Act, 1874" acts as Executor of Wills. Treates, Administrator or Receiver, and will take over from other Executors or Fiduciaries estates or business at present in their hands on most reasonable terms.

The Company also acts as Attorney or Agent for those who, from absence, ill-health or other cause, are unable or unwilling to manage their own affairs; and will also act for persons beyond the colony in the collection of interest on debentures, stock, shares, &c. In this capacity the Company will sell or let houses, invest moneys, negotiate loans, collect tents, &c.; effect insurances, and act generally for their constituents, who may be sure that any business blaced in the hands of the Company will be executed with care and dispatch.

The advantages a Board having perpetual succession, and a large subscribed capital, give over an individual in acting as executor of a will or other fluciary are obvious, while the combined judgment and enlarged experience which the Directors would bring to bear in dealing with the custody and investment of their client's money would prove of great value to those who availed themselves of such as Take GHEER. TO SPECULATORS, INVESTORS, and OTHERS. PARRAMATTA JUNCTION, RAILWAY STATION.

PAMILY RESIDENCE and about 40 ACRES of LAND, fronting the RAILWAY, only 5 minutes' walk from the station, and well known as formerly the property and residence of the late WILL MERSITT, Esq.

The above described property is well worthy the stiention of speculators, with a view to future subdivision in the spring menths, and those in search of a desirable suburban residence with a large area of highly-improved grounds, this property can confidently be recommended.

It must be disposed of in one lot; therefore, intending purchasers are particularly requested to inspect the property prior to the day of sale.

A plan showing the position is now on view at the Rooms, and full particulars as to the mode of proposed subdivision may be obtained or application.
